Jane bought a new condominium at age 50 and withdraws the illustrated accumulated cash payout of $14,560¹⁴ to fund her renovation expenses.

From the end of 20 years after the premium term is completed, Jane will start receiving loyalty bonus⁷ from age 65, in addition to the cash bonus⁷. She will start receiving an illustrated yearly cash payout with loyalty bonus of $2,396^{7,14} to support her retirement years.

Total premiums paid for 10 years

After the end of the 10th policy year, the policy's capital is guaranteed⁶ and begins to pay an illustrated yearly cash payout⁷ of $2,251¹⁴ and Jane chooses to accumulate her yearly cash payouts with Income.

Jane at age 51 then chooses to receive the illustrated yearly cash payout⁷ of $2,251¹⁴ to fund her annual holiday and shopping expenses.

Jane passes away at age 100 with no secondary insured⁸ appointed and her family will receive the death benefit⁹ of $68,494¹⁴ and the policy terminate thereafter.

However, should Jane survive till a ripe old age of 120 years old she would receive a maturity benefit¹⁵ of $72,395¹⁴ and the policy would have provided an illustrated total cash payout⁷ of $180,250¹⁴ from age 45 to age 120 (this amount includes the yearly cash payout accumulated from age 45 to age 50 which was withdrawn to fund her renovation expenses).

Diagram is not drawn to scale. The figures are rounded to the nearest dollar and are used for illustrative purposes only.

The non-guaranteed figures above are based on the assumption that the Life Participating Fund earns a long-term average return of 4.25% per annum.

Should the long-term average return be 3.00% per annum, the illustrated yearly cash payout⁷ would be $1,452¹⁶, the illustrated withdrawal amount for Jane's renovation expenses at age 50 would be $9,045¹⁶, the illustrated yearly cash payout with loyalty bonus would be $1,537^{7,16}, and the death benefit⁹ would be $68,322¹⁶ when Jane passes away at age 100. If Jane survives till a ripe old age of 120 years old, the maturity benefit¹⁵ would be $72,104¹⁶ and the policy would have provided an illustrated total cash payout⁷ of $115,445¹⁶ from age 45 to age 120 (this amount includes the yearly cash payout accumulated from age 45 to age 50 which was withdrawn to fund her renovation expenses).
